ABSTRACT

Lexical meaning is the lowest meaning unit in a language's meaning system that can be separated from other comparable units. Contextual meaning is the meaning of a lexeme or word inside a context. A contextual definition is also a definition in which the term is used by embedding it in a larger expression containing its explanation. This research aims to find out : 1) What kind the lexical meanings are contained in a contextual sentence in the article of Chelsea FC – the 5th Stand application? 2) What are the contextual meanings used in the article of Chelsea FC – the 5th Stand application?

This research was descriptive qualitative because the data were the article in Chelsea FC – The 5th Stand Application. There were some steps in collecting data such as download the application in play store or apple store, browsed the article in the application, read and find the contextual meaning and lexical meaning. In data analysis, this research used Miles and Huberman procedure, namely data reduction, data display and conclusion drawing/ verification. The researcher use validator to validity.

The result of this research were the researcher analyzes the context of the sentences and determines the different lexical meanings that are present. The researcher found 5 contextual meanings contained in 5 articles in Chelsea FC - the 5th Stand Application. Based on this analysis, the researcher concluded that there are three categories of lexical meanings, namely lexicon, lexeme, and word. The researcher deduces the contextual meaning the speaker intended from this examination. Even though some of the words in the article have various meanings, others are readily guessed and misconstrued. The author's analysis, which sought to identify lexical meanings and their types as well as contextual and in-article meanings, produced results that support the idea that grammar is used in everyday life and that language is learned from a variety of sources. In this case, the articles in Chelsea FC - The 5th Sand Application are very educational and much better for enhancing one's proficiency and competence in the target language.

CHAPTER 1 INTRODUCTION

A. Title Confirmation

This thesis title is "An Analysis of Lexical and Contextual Meaning in (Chelsea FC – The 5th Stand) Application". In the world of language, there are certainly lexical and contextual aspects that are difficult for readers to understand. Departing from this problem, the author is interested in conducting research that focuses on lexical and contextual analysis so that people can easily understand the lexical and contextual meaning of an article.

An analysis is a process that involves systematic testing of something to ascertain the relationship between its parts and its connection with the whole, in addition to being an activity to search for correlations.¹The analysis is a multi-step process that consists of parsing, selecting an item to be classified or organized in accordance with defined criteria, and then interpreting and deducing its meaning.² An understanding analysis is a thinking activity to break down a whole into its component parts in order to identify the signs of the parts, their connections, and the significance that each component plays in the overall system.³

The referent, the findings of sensory observation, or the meaning that is actual in day-to-day living can all be used to determine the lexical meaning.⁴The terms lexical meaning and word meaning are interchangeable. When usage or context have no bearing on a word's meaning, it is said to have a lexical meaning, also known as an external or semantic meaning.⁵Because each definition in the dictionary serves as an illustration of lexical meaning, there will be a correlation between the lexical meaning and the dictionary.⁶

The outcome of statements and context is contextual meaning (situational meaning). As a result, the context contributes to the meaning.⁷ The meaning of a word or phrase in relation to the circumstance, setting, and timing of its use is referred to as contextual meaning. The relationships between the words in a text, or, in certain situations, the relationship is found outside of the text, in the immediate situation, provide context.⁸

The article is a freelance writing work containing an opinion of someone who already knows a lot about an actual problem or object, to inform, entertain, influence, and convince the reader.

In understanding the information on clubs, matches, match results, press conferences for coaches and players, as well as video footage of training and match highlights, commonly the fans use Chelsea FC - The 5thStandapplication. The official mobile app for Chelsea FC sports is called The 5th Stand. Every piece of information a fan could possibly want will be provided.

From these explanations, it can be concluded that the title of the thesis is "An Analysis of Lexical and Contextual Meaning in Chelsea FC – The 5th Stand Application". The goal is to analyze what kinds and meanings of Lexical and Contextual contained in the article from the application.

B. Background of the Problem

Language learning and teaching are made possible by linguistics. Linguists, language instructors, translators, dictionaries, textbook authors, and anybody else who works with languages can benefit from linguistics. Everyone should take language development into consideration when studying linguistics, or the ability of individuals to successfully comprehend and apply the word, both verbally and in writing. One of the many subfields of linguistics is comparative linguistics. Other subfields include sociolinguistics, ethnolinguistics, psycholinguistics, semantics, pragmatics, syntax, and phonetics.⁹ In this study, the researcher will focus especially on the lexical meaning and contextual meaning in the semantic field as the phenomenon.

According to Portner, semantics is concerned with how grammatical operations create complex meanings out of simpler ones; it concentrates on the literal meanings of words, phrases, and sentences. The study of pragmatics, which focuses on how language is used in specific contexts, tries to clarify how elements outside of language affect the literal and figurative meanings that speakers convey through their use of language.¹⁰ There are various aspects of semantics, and the researcher chose lexical and contextual meanings as the foundation for this study. A word's contextual relationships determine its lexical meaning, which is how it is understood. The link between words and meanings is the focus of lexical meaning.¹¹ However, despite the fact that there are several possible meanings for a word through its lexical meaning, the context ultimately determines whether or not to accept any particular interpretation. Language has a context-dependent meaning or contextual meaning. The context's reference to human existence is relevant. The words take on context-specific meaning when people employ words that occasionally have various meanings from their true meanings.¹²

As a result, lexical analysis and contextual meaning can be used to discover where a language's meaning originated. However, miscommunications could happen when speech partners and speakers interact. This is because there are inconsistencies in the signals sent, resulting in a mismatch between the listener's interpretation and the speaker's use of language. The difference in reaction to meaning might arise because a word or sentence may have several meanings. Based on the researcher's experience, people, students from the researcher class and the general public in the vicinity of the researcher who appreciate sports will typically look for information about their preferred sport through literature, such as in articles or journals from Chelsea – the 5th Stand Application. The information contained in the so-called journals or articles is articles or journals originating from international applications that use English. In this instance, readers of the article will frequently translate it from a foreign language into their mother tongue, which ultimately leads to misunderstandings. Students must comprehend that English has significance in both context and lexicon, especially those studying English as literature. Moreover, there are still plenty of EFL students and readers of sports publications who perform translation tasks without paying attention to the context of the sentence being read.

This study will analyze the lexical and contextual meaning contained in the Chelsea – the 5th Stand Application. The important value in this study is that the teacher can emphasize contextual meaning to students in the class to better understand the use of contextual meaning so students can express ideas, emotions, and thoughts beautifully. Students in the English Department are taught about contextual meaning, especially those who intend to do research on the subject. Consequently, to inform the reader or listener of the meaning in every circumstance. Additionally, it teaches readers who are interested in semantics new information, particularly about contextual meaning. The researcher hopes that this study will provide the reader with further facts and sources to improve their understanding of the lexical and contextual meanings utilized in the Chelsea FC - the 5th Stand application.

In accordance with Theresia Budi Sucihati's journal entitled An Analysis of Lexical and Contextual Meaning on Sports News in Jawa Pos Newspaper (Linguistics Study). Her research demonstrated how sports publications' individual authors utilized lexical and contextual meanings as a linguistic style. Risalatul Hasanah and Mosleh Habibullah write in their journal "Analysis Of Lexical And Contextual Meaning In Raef's Song Lyric Of The Path Album As The Holy Qur'an Values" that Raef's song lyric has a lexical meaning. Each lyric is used to create a different Path album. Meanwhile, the contextual meaning of each word of each lyric in Raef's song lyric The Path album is discovered and becomes the keyword's intended meaning. Furthermore, each lyric contains the worth of the Holy Qur'an. It complements the song's phrase, indicating that each lyric has Holy Qur'an worth. Lexical And Contextual Meanings In Children Storybook: A Stylistic Approach by Anna Riana Suryanti Tambunan, Winda Setia Sari, Citra Anggia Putri, Morada Tetty, and Rita Hartat. Their finding showed that The Little Prince contains four different meanings, including metonymy, irony, and metaphor as lexical and contextual meanings. Irony emerged as the primary meaning among all of these. The author of the children's book intentionally used irony to convey a moral lesson to the readers, especially the young ones. Therefore, I will make comparing the Chelsea FC – the 5th Stand application.

C. Focus and Sub-focus of the Research

Based on the background of the problem above, the researcher determines that:

1. Research Focus

As stated in the background of the problem above, the researcher focuses on finding and analyzing lexical and contextual meaning in the article of Chelsea FC – the 5th Stand application.

2. Research Sub-Focus

To know the meaning of lexical and contextual and also understand the difference between lexical and contextual meaning. The researcher will select and analyze the articles from Chelsea FC – the 5th Stand application to find data. Some of the selected articles include:

1. Nouwen looks to next challenge after Euros exit
2. Frustrated Chalobah looking for Chelsea response
3. Potter: no fear over Sterling pressure
4. Potter reacts to Chelsea's World Cup call-ups
5. Tuchel: it is hard to swallow

The researcher decides to focus on the five articles that have been chosen. Considering that there are neither too few nor too many articles, five are regarded as having completed the research.

D. Formulation of the Problem

1. What kind the lexical meanings are contained in a contextual sentence in the article of Chelsea FC – the 5th Stand application?
2. What are the contextual meanings used in the article of Chelsea FC – the 5th Stand application?

E. Objective of the Research

1. To know the kind of lexical meaning found in the Chelsea FC – the 5th Stand application.
2. To know contextual meaning contain in Chelsea FC – the 5th Stand application.

F. Significance of the Research

The results of this study are anticipated to have both theoretical and practical implementations.

1. Theoretically

The other researcher who will examine lexical and contextual meaning will benefit from new knowledge provided by this research. The lexical and contextual meaning theories from prior studies were also completed with the help of this study.

2. Practically

- a. This research can improve English learners' understanding of the lexical and contextual meaning in sports publications as foreign language learners (EFL).
- b. English teachers, the research is believed to provide details regarding the lexical and contextual meaning, allowing English teachers to use it to instruct their learners in literary analysis. When teaching English, the teacher is concerned with both the context and the grammatical form.
- c. This research can provide a general understanding of how to examine lexical and contextual meaning to other researchers. The following researcher may use this study as a reference.
- d. The researcher hopes that the study will expand the reader's awareness of lexical and contextual meaning for those who read the article on Chelsea FC - the 5th Stand application and are interested in the literary world. The context in the written form, namely in the essay, can help the readers learn how to understand the students' challenges with lexical and contextual meaning.

G. Relevance Studies

There are a number of researchers who conducted similar research some of them as follows:

Fitriani Ponso, Sari Rejeki, and Maulana Taufi write in their journal "Lexical and Contextual Meanings Contained in Religious Song Lyrics at Quiver Center Academy (QCA)" that their research aims to discover the theme, lexical, and contextual meaning in the lyrics of the songs frequently sung at Quiver Center Academy (QCA) school in Gading Serpong, Tangerang City. The descriptive analysis method is used in this study. The research revealed that noun is the most common category word in the songs, with lexical and contextual meaning. The key reason for the lexical and contextual meaning of these terms is to better understand the song's message. Furthermore, they support the idea of deity, destiny, integrity, victory, and battle in the QCAs.

Theresia Budi Sucihati writes in her journal, "An Analysis of Lexical and Contextual Meaning on Sports News in Jawa Pos Newspaper (Linguistics Study)," that her study focused on linguistics and investigated lexical and contextual meaning. Reading the news report can teach us how to appreciate literature and the history of the language. They concentrated their research on the lexical and contextual meanings used in sports stories as a result. This study used a descriptive qualitative method because the researcher would be evaluating and interpreting the object research of a sports article. According to the results of this study, (1) every term with a lexical meaning used in sports articles is meant to draw readers to the news or newspapers, and (2) every word with a lexical meaning may be investigated using contextual analysis.

Djuria Suprpto states in his journal "Contextual meaning Study of Translation of Children's Story "The Lion King" from English into Indonesian" his journal's purpose is to measure the emergence of concepts or the meanings of specific words that are thought to be significant and advance the objectives of his research, in this case, the translation of words, phrases, and sentences from the source language (English) into the target language (Indonesian) (Indonesian). The emphasis on the style and content in children's stories included in them as a result of this research, thus the translation must take into account the story's context.

Akhmad Ali Mirza writes in his journal "The Effects Of Contextual Meaning Aspects On Reading Comprehension" The researcher came to the following conclusions as a result of his investigation: (1) Reading proficiency has a significant impact on students' reading comprehension; (2) contextual meaning aspects (context clues) have a significant impact on students' reading comprehension; and (3) neither reading proficiency nor contextual meaning aspects (context clues) have a significant impact on students' reading comprehension.

Umi Nur Chotimah and Agus Husein As Sabiq write in their journal "An Analysis on Contextual Meaning of Selected Songs in Rex Orange County's Album "Pony" and Its Pedagogical Implication" that The Pony album, in summary, contained numerous contextual implications. This album had 40 contextual meaning data and seven types of context, according to the researchers. One personal context datum, 11 situational context data, 2 purposeful context data, 6 mood context data, 6 temporal context data, 11 object context data, and 3 linguistic context data were distributed. The researchers, on the other hand, were unable to locate the remaining categories of context. As a result, the songwriter's usage of situational and object settings was more prominent in this record. Meanwhile, the setting in this study with the least number was personal. Rex used many contextually meaningful words, phrases, and sentences to describe his life tales, which we learn about through song lyrics.

Anna Riana Suryanti Tambunan, Winda Setia Sari, Citra Anggia Putri, Morada Tetty, Rita Hartati writes in their journal "Lexical And Contextual Meanings In Children Storybook: A Stylistic Approach" The researchers discovered that the fairytale The Little Prince, published by Antonie de Saint Exupery in 1943, contains a total of 2002 phrases, with 27 of them containing stylistic techniques based on contextual and lexical meaning. The study's problem is to use a stylistic method to discover the storybook's deeper significance. Examining the stylistic devices identified in the storybook as well as those found based on lexical and contextual meaning are the two objectives of the study.

After reading and comprehending the pertinent research, the researcher discovered that the general population is still experiencing issues. Between the study that has been conducted and the research being done, there are some similarities and contrasts. By updating prior findings, it encourages the researcher to carry out similar study. From various kinds of problems and research conducted by several sources, The researcher will focus on the lexical and contextual meaning and what kinds of lexical and contextual meaning were used. The researcher focuses on the article in the Chelsea FC the 5th stand application because no research discusses lexical and contextual meaning in the article that was posted on the sports application.

H. Research Method

a. Research Design

"The data of qualitative research are in the form of words, pictures, or objects" according to Macdonald, "whereas the data of quantitative research are in the form of figures and statistics." According to Creswell, "the distinction between qualitative and quantitative research is defined by the use of words (qualitative) rather than numbers (quantitative)".¹³ The qualitative approach was a research strategy that generated descriptive information from the study objectives, whether they were drawn from books or society, in the form of written and spoken words.¹⁴ In qualitative research, a range of empirical material is examined and gathered to illustrate common and challenging moments and significance in people's lives, including case studies, personal experience introspective, life narrative, interviews, observational, historical, interactive, and common text.¹⁵

Based on the foregoing explanation, the author came to the conclusion that a study known as qualitative research uses written, visual, or written documents as its data sources. The descriptive qualitative method was employed in this study. To describe and evaluate the data gathered from an article in the Chelsea FC - the 5th Stand application as it related to this topic, the researcher used qualitative research. A descriptive qualitative approach is used in this study to analyze the lexical and contextual meaning used in the article of Chelsea FC – the 5th Stand application. The data is collected by downloading the application, reading the article, and examining the lexical and contextual meaning utilized in the article on Chelsea FC's 5th Stand application.

b. Research Subject

An information source is the topic of the study. The research subject for this study is the Chelsea FC - The 5th Stand application. Researchers will focus on analyzing the kinds and meaning of lexical and contextual from the article in Chelsea FC – The 5th Stand application.

c. Instrument

In the research, the instrument is essential. A significant tool for gathering data in qualitative research is the researcher. In the research, the instrument is essential. A significant tool for gathering data in qualitative research is the researcher. The data were gathered by the researcher utilizing a documented method. A documentation method, in Suharsimi's perspective, can be obtained by employing a book, transcript, film, video, newspaper, magazine, meeting minutes, an old inscription, and an agenda.¹⁶

d. Data Collecting Technique

The data collection procedures used in this study, as well as the particular instruments used to collect the data, are presented in this section. Data is obtained for qualitative research through in-depth interviews, document analysis, observation, and examination of audiovisual materials.¹⁷

Because the research subjects in this study were examined in the article, the researcher decided to collect data through documentation in this study.

The researcher employs a variety of strategies to gather data:

1. The researcher downloaded Chelsea FC – The 5th Stand application
2. The researcher reading the article contained in the application
3. The researcher writes notes, marking the words or sentences
4. The researcher identifies and classifies data

The researcher will describe the research analysis based on the data sources that the researchers gathered, specifically about sports news on the Chelsea FC – The 5th Stand application, in this section. The researchers will look at the lexical and contextual interpretations of chosen sports articles that are part of Chelsea FC – The 5th Stand application.¹⁸

e. Trustworthiness of Data

To determine the degree of truthfulness of research findings, standards are required. In qualitative research, this criterion is sometimes referred to as trustworthiness. "Validity is one of the strengths of qualitative research," according to Creswell and Miller, "and is based on establishing whether the findings are correct from the position of the researcher, the participant, or the readers of an account." Based on the qualitative literature, terms like trustworthiness, authenticity, and credibility abound when it comes to validity.¹⁹ The goal of trustworthiness is to account for the research findings. Using triangulation approaches, according to Creswell, is one strategy to increase data reliability. This procedure was used to double-check the data using various methods and sources.²⁰

There are several methods for performing data triangulation, according to Miles and Huberman.:

1. Triangulation Data Source

The goal of trustworthiness is to account for the research findings. Using triangulation approaches, according to Cresswell, is one strategy to increase data reliability. This procedure was used to double-check the data using various methods and sources.

2. Methodological Triangulation

This approach makes advantage of findings from studies conducted using other methodologies.

3. Investigator Triangulation

This method makes use of one or more specialists who look into and assess the findings of the researchers.

4. Theoretical Triangulation

This is an approach that incorporates some theory into data analysis study. Journals, books, articles, and other sources are used by the researchers.²¹

In this research, the researcher used investigator triangulation. The investigator in this research is the lecturer in Islamic University of Raden Intan Lampung. Thus, the data triangulation for the researcher was done by analyzing lexical and contextual meaning in Chelsea fc – the 5th stand application.

f. Data Analysis

Method of analyzing data is an effort made to classify, categorize of data and for grouping/synchronize the data must be based on what the objectives of the study. Organizing data into categories, describing them into units, synthesizing, compiling them into patterns, and deciding which ones are significant and which are not, according to Sugiyono, is the process of systematically searching and compiling data obtained from interviews, field notes, and documentation.²² Activities in qualitative data, according to Miles and Huberman, include data reduction, data visualization, and conclusion drawing and verification.²³ Data from Miles and Huberman in Sugiyono's book were analyzed in this study using three primary phases: data condensation, data display, and conclusion drawing or verification.²⁴

a. Data Condensation

Focusing, choosing, and simplifying data from documents, field notes, interviews, and other sources is known as data condensation. To gather the data, the researcher will choose the documents.

b. Data Display

The following phase involves organizing the data presentation by putting it in the form of tables, graphs, matrices, diagrams, or narratives. It is expected that this method of presentation will make it simpler to interpret the data that is presently available. To display the data, the researcher used a table.

c. Conclusion Drawing or Verification.

After completing the data condensing and data displaying stages, the final step is drawing conclusions and verification. The researcher analyzes the findings in this step, checks the lexical and contextual meaning and made conclusions.

I. Systematic of The Research

This study employs the following systematic discussion to make it simple to understand :

CHAPTER I. INTRODUCTION

This chapter contains Title Confirmation, Background of the Problem, Focus and Sub-focus of the Research, Problem Formulation, Objective of the Research, Significance of the Research, Relevance Research, Research Method and, Systematics of the Research.

CHAPTER II. LITERATURE REVIEW

Contains descriptions of theories relating to the problems to be studied

CHAPTER III. DESCRIPTION OF THE RESEARCH OBJECT

Contains in detail (1) a general description of the research object containing the social, historical, cultural, economic, demographic, environmental background as an overview of the research based on the research findings. (2) Presentation of Facts and Research Data describes the facts of the findings in the field supported by data found in the field.

CHAPTER IV RESEARCH ANALYSIS

Provided research analysis, which includes examination of research findings and conclusions.

CHAPTER V CONCLUSION AND SUGGESTION

presented the research's conclusions and results.

A. Conclusion

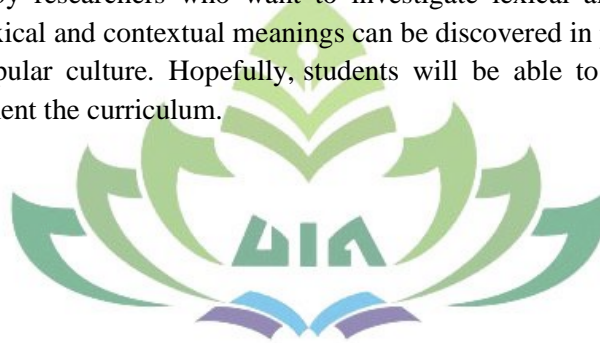

From this research, the researcher analyzes the context of the sentences and determines the different lexical meanings that are present. The researcher found 5 contextual meanings contained in 5 articles in Chelsea FC - the 5th Stand Application. Based on this analysis, the researcher concluded that there are three categories of lexical meanings, namely lexicon, lexeme, and word.

The researcher deduces the contextual meaning the speaker intended from this examination. Even though some of the words in the article have various meanings, others are readily guessed and misconstrued. The author's analysis, which sought to identify lexical meanings and their types as well as contextual and in-article meanings, produced results that support the idea that grammar is used in everyday life and that language is learned from a variety of sources. In this case, the articles in Chelsea FC - The 5th Sand Application are very educational and much better for enhancing one's proficiency and competence in the target language.

B. Suggestion

The types and meanings of lexical and contextual terms can be learned through the articles contained in Chelsea FC - The 5th Stand Application. Other literary works that are often read by people can be used by researchers who want to investigate lexical and contextual meanings. In addition to articles, lexical and contextual meanings can be discovered in poetry, films, and o ther forms of popular culture. Hopefully, students will be able to use lexical and contextual information to implement the curriculum.
