In elementary school the teacher had taught reading, especially in English lessons. In Indonesia, learning to read English starts at the fourth grade of elementary schools, and it continues at junior and senior high schools up to the higher education. Reading is complex process.⁶ Reading is a process to understand the ideas between the reader and the writer to get information from the text and to get a conclusion of the information that text. English as a language has four basic skills which are listening, speaking, reading and writing.⁷ Before, one of reading become a basic thing for students, because whenever students get difficult in reading, they would got trouble in learning process. As a result, they would got bad result on their school assignment.

Reading is a set of skills that involves making sense and deriving meaning from the printed word.⁸ Its mean, can be said that reading is an activity which beginning see and find out the meaning from the text self it. Reading for students could be got new ideas, information, had motivation and expanded interests. Achieve this goal, in the school students need must had skills in understood reading comprehension.

Reading comprehension is the process of making meaning from text. The goal, therefore, is to gain an overall understanding of what is described in the text rather than to obtain meaning from isolated words or sentence.¹³ In reading comprehension could be defined as a thought process through which the reader became aware of idea in the text. In this study, samples were taken of 27 students from X IPS 3 as the experimental group and 27 students from X IPS 2 as the control group. The data collection instrument in this research in this research used to a test given to students. This research use method is quantitative method and using quasi experimental design. This research analyzed the data has been used t-test. The results of the research, some information could be known: The results of the research some of information could be known, namely: Differences in pre-test and post-test between the two means of score. (1).The pre-test average score was 56.77. (2).The post-test average score was 77.03. It conclusion, using RCRR strategy on students reading comprehension of descriptive text was effectively at SMA Muhammadiyah 8 Ciputat.¹⁹

The second previous research was conducted in 2019 at SMPS Harapan Ananda Sungai Raya. The research purpose to find out, namely; (1). Before, difference of students reading comprehension achievement, (2). After, implementation Read, Cover, Remember, Retell strategy and (3) How is the effect of implementation Read, Cover, Remember, Retell strategy on reading comprehension. This study was used a pre-experimental research and use the data distribution. This research population was use (DISwati, 2021) all of the eight grade students of SMPS Harapan Ananda Sungai Raya in the academic year of 2019/2020 and the sample were taken of 44 students V III A. The collecting data in this research was used measurement technique and analyzed data was used Version SPSS 17.0. This study find of the result namely: (1). Data normal was the research after pre-test and post-test which were score pre-test 30.82 and 49.34 post-test. (2).The implemented results were pre-test (9.933) and post-test (8.768). (3).The effect of the use Read, Cover, Remember, Retell strategy was moderate effect level based on the Cohen's effect. It was 0.99 which meant that RCRR strategy gave positive effect to student's reading comprehension. The study concluded that the effect of using RCRR strategy had a gave positive impact on students of SMPS Harapan Ananda Sungai Raya in academic of the year 2019/2020 in learning reading comprehension.²⁰

The Third previous research was conducted in 2021 at MTS Jauharul Iman. This study aimed to find out the effect and the significance difference between taught by using of Read Cover Remember Retell strategy on students reading comprehension. This research was used research method is quantitative and design with used quasi experimental. The data collection was used pre-test and post-test. The result of the analysis indicated that the mean of post-test score of experimental class (79,6) was higher than the mean of pre-test score (52). So that H_{a1} was accepted. It means there was significant effect of (RCRR) strategy after giving treatment. Next, the writer had computed that the score of $t_{test} \geq t_{table}$ (6,84 \geq 2,09). So, H_{01} was accepted. It means, there was significant difference between those who taught by Read, Cover, Remember, Retell (RCRR) strategy and those who are not.²¹

The fourth previous research was conducted in 2019 at MAS Laboratorium Jambi. The research aimed of the study were to find out whether there is any significant effect and difference of using RCRR on students' in reading comprehension. The design of this study was used quasi experimental research with class tenth grade students X MIPA 1 and X MIPA 2 which count of 50 students. The research collected data was use pre-test and post-test in each class. The result of the research was the students' pre-test score in experimental research class was 59,00 and after that the students ' post-test was 74,60. The testing of hypotheses also proved that RCRR strategy gave significant effect on students' reading comprehension. On the significant level $\alpha = 0,05$, t_v (t-value) was higher than t_t (t-table). The t_v was 3.862 while t_t of d_f 48 in significance level 5% was 1.677 and at significance level 1% was 2.407. Read it $1.677 < 3.682 > 2.407$. The result of the research was there was significant effect of RCRR strategy toward students' reading comprehension at the tenth grade of MAS Laboratorium Jambi.²²

And the last previous research, was conducted in 2019 at SMPN 10 Cimahi. The research aimed to is there a significant difference on students' reading comprehension through Read, Cover, Remember and Retell (RCRR) strategy. The research used population were VII grade students of SMPN 10 Cimahi. The research was used quantitative research method and experimental design by using pre-test and post-test. The result of this study showed that there was a significant difference on students' achievement in reading comprehension with mean score of pre-test was 40.27 and mean score of post-test was 73.47. The result of the questionnaire toward the students' responses was 68% positive. It indicated that students had a positive response toward the RCRR strategy. Furthermore, the suggestion for the English teachers, it is recommended to use

RCRR strategy to teach reading comprehension in their classes because it can improve the students' reading comprehension ability.²³

Thus far, previous research have different from this research hav different from this research is using descriptive as material for testing class control and experiment. This research to know any significant difference of using RCRR strategy toward students reading comprehension.

CHAPTER II

FRAME OF THEORY AND HYPOTHESIS

A. Concept of Reading

The aim of the paper is to provide a conceptual theoretical framework based on definition of Reading.

1. Definition of Reading

Key to the success in learning English in school is reading skills. Reading is an important skill to be developed in the teaching and learning process at schools.¹ Reading is one skill that must be mastered by students. It is useful and it can increase their knowledge. In learning English, reading is important to get knowledge for the student. Reading is an interactive process between the reader, the text, and the context in which the text is presented. The most important component here is the reader.² So, the reader shows to action on process interactive reading between the text and the context have read for learning of the reading from school.

Kristin have provided a new definition of reading, "Reading is an interactive process that takes place between the text and the reader's processing strategies and background knowledge."³ It means, reading is a process that occurs between the reader and the text being read which influences the reader to increase knowledge. Reading comprehension can understand information by interpreting source information from a text. Then, reading has a purpose to get knowledge. Reading also is one of the skills important for everyone in life. Reading is a way to know information.

³ Kristin Lems and Tenena M. Soro, "Teaching Reading to English Language Learners, London, 2010,P.33.

Devi et al. have provided a new definition of reading “Reading is the most useful and important skill for people. This skill is more important than speaking and writing because reading is not only a source of information and a pleasurable activity but also as a mean of consolidating and extending one's knowledge of the language.”⁴ Reading is an interactive process between the reader and the text, resulting in comprehension. So crucial for reading in education. Therefore, in school students need to exercise and practice to have reading be better.

According to a definition provided by Becker et.al is “Reading is one of skill which is important for students. It can give a lot of information.”⁵ Reading is this skill is more important than speaking and writing because reading is not only a source of information and a pleasurable activity but also as a mean of consolidating and extending one's knowledge of the language, Reading is an interactive process that goes on between the reader and the text, resulting in comprehension. The reading skill becomes very important in the education field, students need to be exercised and trained in order to have a good reading skills.

Based on the explanation above, it can be concluded that reading is a complex process of receiving and interpreting information from the text. The previous reader to get knowledge of the meaning and understanding of the text to get the ideas or Information from the author. Reading is a way to open knowledge for in life or education.

2. Types of Reading

Patel state reading is divide into several types, namely as follow:⁶

a. Intensive Reading

Intensive reading is text reading or passage reading. In this reading, the learner reads the text to get knowledge or analysis the purpose of this reading is to read shorter text. This reading is done to carry out to get specific information. The learner reads book to acquire knowledge is the kind of intensive reading.

Intensive reading will provide a basis for explaining difficulties of structure and for extending knowledge of vocabulary and idioms. It will also provide material for developing greater control of the language in speech and writing.

b. Extensive Reading

Material for extensive reading will be selected at a lower level of difficulty than that for intensive reading. The purpose of extensive reading will be to train the student to read directly and fluently in the target language for enjoyment, without the aid of the teacher.

c. Aloud Reading

Reading aloud also play important role in the teaching of English. The teacher should know that the training of reading aloud must be given at the primary level because it is the base of word pronunciation.

d. Silent Reading

Silent reading is a very important skill in teaching English. This reading should be employed to increase reading ability among learners. Silent reading is done to acquire a lot of information. A teacher has to make them read silently as and when they can read without any difficulties.

B. Concept of Reading Comprehension

1. Definition of Reading Comprehension

Reading comprehension is important in the world of education because this skill is still minimum understanding for students of the meaning of the text English. Comprehending is key to understanding the meaning of text English. If, students or people others in life can not to understanding the text. So, can be said that fail in comprehending reading. Find some of the theories important to reading comprehension as follows;

Reading Comprehension is defined as the level of recognizing a text/message.⁷ It means, Reading Comprehension is a process of student in comprehension text or message in text. It's concluded reading comprehension in education because students improve in linguistic knowledge, knowledge of the world, and knowledge about a topic of the text. Reading comprehension is an interactive mental process between a reader's linguistic knowledge, knowledge of the world, and knowledge about a given topic.⁸ Based on the above theories reading comprehension is one aspect important in the world and education. In the world for humans and the education for teachers, lecturers, students, and others as education. The key to understanding all kinds of text is comprehension.

Those it is conclude from explanation by expert, reading comprehension in research is as the process of getting a message from the writer through written text and students' reading comprehension is a complex intellectual process involving several abilities.

C. Concept of Text

1. Definition of Text

In general, the text is a relevant article. Human beings live in a world of words. Parts of the text are produced when certain words are combined to express a message. A text is constructed while either speaking or writing to transmit a message. You understand its meaning when you read, listen to, or watch a piece of literature. It signifies that when individuals use language to write, they produce and develop a text. Whenever a person reads a text, they are interpreting it.

A text is a completed act of communication such as a novel, movie, television, advertisement."⁹ A good place to begin is to say more precisely what functional linguistic means by text. A text's length is not important and it can be either spoken or written. What matters is context-appropriate meanings. The unity of goal offers a text texture as well as structure. The texture is determined by how well meanings in the text fit together with other information in the text. Structure refers to how most pieces of language in use have some required structural components that are appropriate to their function and context.

2. Genre of Text

⁹ Pete Kaagan, Wankins, Mega. Generic Text, Grammar (Sindey; University of New South Wales Press Ltd, 2005), p.29

Tradition has it that genre is an artificial and rhetorical categorization system derived from literally and rhetorical criticism that labels classes of writings based on their forms.¹⁰ The text's genre is a classification of text kinds based on their forms and substance. According to a definition provided by Gerrot and Wignel, types of genre text are fourteen as follows;

- a. Anecdote is a kind of genre used to share with others an account of an unusual or amusing incident.
- b. Spoof is a kind of genre used to retell events with a humorous twist.
- c. Procedure is a kind of genre used to describe how something is accomplished through a sequence of actions or steps.
- d. Explanation is a kind of genre used to explain the processes involved in the formation or workings of natural or socio-cultural phenomena.
- e. Report is a kind of genre used to describe the way things are, with reference to arrange or natural, man made and social phenomena in our environment.
- f. Analytical exposition is a kind of genre used to persuade the reader or listener to take action on some matter.
- g. Hortatory exposition is a kind of genre used to persuade the reader or listener that something should or should not be the case.
- h. Discussion is a kind of genre used to present (at least) two points of view about an issue.
- i. Descriptive is a kind of genre used to describe a particular person, place or thing.

¹⁰ Amy J Devin, Writing Genres (New York: Southern Illions University Press, 2004), p.5

- j. Recount is a kind of genre used to retell something that happened in the past for the purpose of informing or entertaining.
- k. News items is give tye text that give informs to reader events of the day which are considered newsworthy or important.¹¹

Based on these types there are kinds of texts, each texts have of different characteristics and purposes. The research will use descriptive text because based on the interview with the English teacher in SMA Gajah Mada Bandar Lampung, reading about descriptive is difficult for the students because the descriptive text contains various adjectives that usually make the students confused about the meaning. Therefore, the research has to choose the right technique to solve that problem

D. Concept of Descriptive Text

1. Definition of Descriptive Text

Matthews have provided “descriptive text is a way to explain about events in or states of the world.”¹² Schwegler, addition that descriptive text is a text used to expose the details about places, people, qualities, emotions, moods, etc.”¹³

Descriptive text is a type of text used by the writer or speaker to describe a particular thing, person, animal, place and or event to the reader or listener.¹⁴ It means that descriptive text of an article type by the author by describing a particular object be it a person, animal, or place. Descriptive texts in reading could improve students' reading comprehension. Students could improve their reading comprehension in understanding the identification and description, of descriptive text. Based on Brown theory, especially in reading. There are some criteria are commonly used in measuring students reading comprehension ability, they are¹⁵:

1. Main idea (topic)

Main idea is basically the most important thought about the topic. According to Alexander et.al, main idea is what the author wants to you know and understand about the topic.¹⁶ It means that main idea refers to important information that tells more about the overall idea of a paragraph or section of a text. In other words, main idea is actually the point of paragraph.

2. Expression/Idiom phrase in context

The question of expression/idiom/phrase in context is idiom are words or phrase that mean something different from the individual words.¹⁷ A word that is different from individual words.

3. Inference (implied detail).

According to Hatch, inference question ask you about information that is implied by the passage rather than directly stated.¹⁸ In other words, inference question is guessing something that is not directly stated in the text.

4. Grammatical features (reference)

5. Detail (scanning for a specifically stated detail)

In discussion about reading, this skill is frequently referred to as scanning. In contrast to reading for gist, we read because we want to specific details.¹⁹ It means that the reader must read with comprehend in order to get the point from the text.

6. Excluding facts not written (unstated details)

Excluding fact not written question ask you the information in text that is not explains directly.

7. Supporting idea

Supporting idea underscores the research's main idea by providing clarification of its meaning or evidence to corroborate.²⁰ Its means supporting idea clarifies the topic sentence or main idea of a written passage.

8. Vocabulary in context.

Based on theories above can be said the descriptive text has its own specification that is different from others. The research concludes that students' reading comprehension in descriptive text is the students ability to get meaning of the text in descriptive to describe and reveal a particular person, place, or thing and comprehend the text in order that the students are able to answer the questions and have good understanding of main idea, inferences, grammatical features, detail, excluding facts not written, supporting ideas and vocabulary in context.

2. Generic Structure of Descriptive Text

The generic structure of descriptive text, they are:

1. Identification
Identified a phenomenon to be describe.
2. Description
Describe features in order importance, describing a phenomenon in parts, qualities, and characteristic.
 - a. Parts/things (physical appearance).
 - b. Qualities (degree of beauty, excellence, or worth (value))

3. Language Feature of Descriptive Text

Language features of descriptive text are follows:

1. Using specific nouns, for example: teacher, car, my house etc.
2. Simple Present Tense
Positive: S + V1 (s/es) + O, example: she likes running.
Negative: S + Do/Does + not + O, example: she does not likes running.
3. Detailed noun phrase to give about subjects. Example, a large open now boat, a sweet baby, and etc.
4. Some adjective (describing, numbering and classifying). Example, Tired body, sharps white fang, etc.
5. Relating verb to give information about subjects. Example: My Father very kind, it has very big size, etc.

4. Example of Descriptive Text

Singapore

Singapore is a South-east Asian country located between Malaysia and Indonesia. Despite its small size, Singapore is known for its transition as a third-world country to the first-world country. Singapore also was known as the Asian Tiger economy, based on external trade and its workforce. Singapore size is not as big as Indonesia, but the city ranks highly in numerous international rankings for its education, entertainment, finance, healthcare, human capital, innovation, logistics, manufacturing, technology, tourism, trade, and transport.

E. Concept of RCRR Strategy

1. Definition of RCRR Strategy

RCRR strategy is vehicle for increasing the knowledge and understanding of the participant in a collaborative context. It means the students can get their comprehension through this strategy. So, the students can improve their ability in comprehending the text. According to Serravallo, the RCRR strategy slows down the reading process and forces children to focus on remembering the content of the passage.²¹

²¹ Jennifer Serravallo, The Reading Strategies Book, (Portsmouth, NH: Heinemann, 2015), p. 39.

And in addition according to Macecca the “RCRR activity is an effective approach to help readers at all grade levels who think that good reading is reading quickly and as result do not understand what they have read”²²

The RCRR Strategy is one method of learning in a cooperative learning environment. Students will work in pairs or small groups to learn. It encourages pupils to convey their understanding of the book. Some effective RCRR strategies include alternating between comprehension and summarization or explanation. This technique appears to be superior for both motivation and learning since it reduces the possibility that one person is merely a passive recipient. The success of pupils allocated to learner-teacher will subsequently be used to evaluate learner-achievement. Teacher's It will hold the students accountable for both teachings and learning from one another.

2. Procedures of RCRR Strategy

There are steps in teaching by using RCRR strategy, as follows;

1) Read only as much as your hand can cover.

When using this strategy, the students should read only about as much as text they can cover with their hand.

2) Cover the words with your hand.

After read the text, students should cover that piece of text with their hand.

3) Remember what you have just read.

Then, they should take a moment to remember what they read by thinking about it. If they can't remember the information, they can go back and take another look at the text.

²² Stephanie Macecca, Reading Strategies for Social studies 2nd rev, (Huntington Beach: Shell Education, 2014), p. 147

4) Retell what you have just read in your own words.

Finally, students retell the information they just read with their own words in front of the class.²³

3. Advantages and Disadvantages of RCRR Strategy

1. The Advantages of RCRR Strategy:

- a) Make students comfortable in learning and enjoy with the material because the students must discuss about the material with other students and can exchange their ideas and make it easy to find solutions and understand.
- b) Can reduce the opportunity that one participant is simply a passive recipient, seem likely to be better for both motivation and learning (gives stimulus to the students to become active learning).
- c) Students will read with a different level of attention and concentration knowing that they will have to say back what they learned without reading it from the text.
- d) Interaction with a peer; making the students has an opportunity for giving mutual support and stimulation.
- e) The students are also motivated to share the information or express their story each to others.

2. The Disadvantages of RCRR Strategy:

- a) Teacher should spend more time to prepare class setting by RCRR method.
- b) Some of students make noisy in the classroom and disturb other students.

F. Concept of LRD Strategy

1. Definition of LRD Strategy

²³ Ibid

According to McKenna in Murni's journal states that "Listen Read Discuss (LRD) is a strategy especially designed for struggling readers. There are three stages represents before, during, and after stages of all reading lesson format".²⁴ Moreover, Trowbridge said that Listen-Read-Discuss (LRD) is a comprehension strategy that builds students' prior knowledge before they read a text. Before reading, the students are listening to a short lecture deliver by the teacher. A guide or graphic organizer can be use to help students follow the information.²⁵

It means that, there are three stages in this strategy. First, the students are listening to the explanation about the material from the teachers. Second, the teacher asks the students to read the text to get their comprehension. Finally, the teacher guides the students to discuss the text to know the students' comprehension about the text. It can be conclude that Listen Read Discuss (LRD) is a strategy for teaching reading that helps student comprehend material presents orally. Also, it helps build students' prior knowledge and evokes discussion in students. The teacher can use this strategy before and during reading and within a small group or in a whole class setting.

2. Procedure of LRD Strategy

According to Trowbridge LRD have three basic steps: Listen, Read, and Discuss.²⁶

The following are the steps of LRD strategy:

²⁴Dewi Strategy (A Classroom Action Research at Class X-1 of SMA Negeri Musuk Boyolaliin 2014/2015AcademicYear) (<http://jurnalmahasiswa.unisri.ac.id/index.php/fkiping> Sri Murni, Improving Students' Reading Comprehension Through Listen-Read-Discuss (LRD) /article/viewFile/198/141, December 18th2016. 20. 47 pm)

²⁵ John E. Trowbridge, Reading in the Content Areas, (Washington: Louisiana Public Broadcasting, 2002), p.11

²⁶ Ibid, P.12

- a. Listen:
Present a lecture on the content of reading. Include a graphic organizer of the information during discussion.
- b. Read:
Students read the selections, guided by the idea that the reading may provide a different understanding or interpretation of the content.
- c. Discuss:
Teachers lead a classroom discussion on the materials, encouraging students to reflect on the differences between their reading of the content and the teacher's presentation.

It means that LRD has three steps, first the students listens the explanation about the material from the teachers. Second, the teacher asks the students to read the text to get their comprehension. Finally, the teacher guides the students to discuss the text to know the students' comprehension about the text.

3. The advantages and Disadvantages LRD Strategy

There are several advantages of using LRD Strategy, they are as follows:

- a. It helps student come to pretend material presented orally.
- b. It builds students' prior knowledge before they read text.
- c. It engages struggling readers in classroom discussion.²⁷

It means that by using LRD to teach students in reading activity it can increase their comprehension and make them enjoy in the classroom. The students get information from the teacher presented orally before they read a text.

²⁷ Teacher Created Resources, Non-fiction Strategies, (Cambridge: Cambridge University Press, 2005), p. 36

However there are also disadvantages in LRD strategy as follows:

1. LRD is difficult to use on a daily basis because developing the Teacher and the students' prior knowledge is time intensive.
2. The teacher must be selective and choose specific text where the students lack prior knowledge about and need more support with LRD text.²⁸ Teacher interaction in the learning process is important because teachers are advisors and mentors in the lesson, the teacher will be impossible without the learning process running optimally.

So, the teacher in the learning process is necessary at all. Especially in improving the reading skills of students, because of time constraints in presenting the material in the school lead to the demand to achieve the desired learning achievement one of them with the intensity of reading outside of school hours in order to achieve these objectives.

G. Hypothesis

The research formula the hypothesis of this research as follows:

H₀: “There is no significant influence of using read, cover, remember, retell (RCRR) strategy toward students reading comprehension in descriptive text at the tenth Grade of SMA Gajah Mada Bandar Lampung in the academic year 2023/2024?”

H_a: “There is a significant influence of using read, cover, remember, retell (RCRR) strategy toward students reading comprehension in descriptive text at the tenth Grade of SMA Gajah Mada Bandar Lampung in the academic year 2023/2024?”
